AkSuiek

«Aksuiek» is a very ancient and interesting game. It was played in warm weather in the summer pasture. Children of different ages and even adults would play this game. when all the players gathered, the leader would divide them into two teams. At the end of the game they would sum up. The winner would be that team who many times would bring aksuiek to the target. Those who lose the game would sing songs and dance as a penalty.

That game begins this way. First of all the leader shows aksuiek it may be a thigh bone. He explains that both teams would seek this very bone, then he would throw it. Then gives a sign to look for that bone. Everybody would rush to seek. If they notice that somebody found it, they would prevent him from coming first. Everyone wants to come first to the target with aksuiek. Some young people take advantage. They would pretend looking for aksuiek, but they' d walk with beautiful ladies, talk about love, nature, but the main idea of this game is to cheer up people, to make them joyful..
